POWER QUALITY & RELIABILITY

At GreyStone Power, we are in the reliability business. Our operations and engineering divisions spend countless hours working to make sure that we provide the most reliable power possible.

From our linemen, to our mapping department, operations and engineering support team, and more, our dedicated staff focuses on how best to serve you, our member, every day.

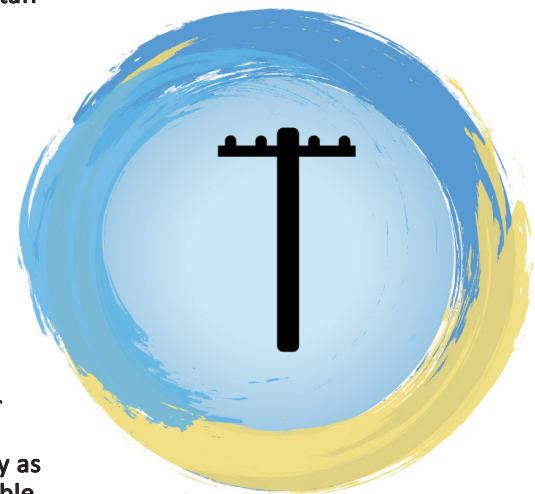

GreyStone has a 99.98% reliability rating, according to the Average Service Availability Index, which measures an electric utility's service reliability. That is why you can rest assured that if your power ever does go out, we have a plan to restore electricity as quickly and safely as possible.

We also plan to keep interruptions from occurring. Your electric cooperative maintains our infrastructure by clearing vegetation from our right-of-way. By cutting back limbs, trees and other obstructions on a continual basis, we are able to prevent many potential outages.

GreyStone is also working toward our goal of 100% LED outdoor lighting in our service area. To date, we have upgraded more than 83% of our outdoor lights to LED, as we look to improve our members' experience with higher efficiency illumination options.

Your co-op is in the process of completing a new substation, which will help increase reliability.

With a focus on making sure members receive quality power, GreyStone looks to implement new and innovative technologies to always be in the forefront, so we can serve you best.
