NEW HEADQUARTERS

If you have driven by the intersection of Highway 92 and Ridge Road in Paulding County in recent months, you have probably seen the beginning stages of GreyStone Power's new headquarters.

Back in 2010, GreyStone's forward-thinking board purchased the property in Paulding at a time when real estate prices were very favorable knowing that one day the cooperative would need to expand.

Thirty-three years ago, when we began considering building our current headquarters, GreyStone had fewer than 45,000 members and $43 million in operating revenue. A total of 166 employees worked at the co-op.

Today, your co-op has more than 119,000 members, $285 million in operating revenue and 263 employees. We have also more than doubled our miles of power lines over that time, with about 3,000 miles of line in 1987 and 8,579 miles of line today.

Given our proximity to Atlanta, we foresee the continuation of higher than average growth rates well into the future. Our cooperative story is one of great success, and with that comes innovation and change. Today, we have vastly outgrown the space needed to best serve you.

Our new headquarters location is geographically in the center of our service area and will allow us to better serve members and the community. We expect to have the facility completed by the end of 2020.

GreyStone will incur no new debt to construct the new building.

Why would a power company return more than $36 million to its customers in one year?

GreyStone Power is a different kind of company. This not-for-profit electric cooperative is owned by the people it serves, called members.

That means that while GreyStone is focused on providing safe, reliable, affordable electricity, it's also focused on keeping rates low and service high.
