COOPERATIVE SOLAR

GreyStone's Cooperative Solar program is off to a great start. The 1-megawatt project has seen overwhelming support. Members have jumped at the chance to capture their share of the sun.

Member Judi Cornish, of Hiram, purchased two blocks. "I thought it was really cool that someone was doing this," she said.

Cornish is no stranger to solar power. She previously lived in the Caribbean for 3 1/2 years on a sailboat. During that time she used solar panels to produce electricity.

This experience made her want to know more about Cooperative Solar when she drove by GreyStone's 6-acre solar farm, located near the intersection of Ridge Road and Laird Road.

When asked what motivated her to purchase two blocks Cornish said, "I wanted to see what it would do in the future."

Members are now reaping the benefits of solar power plus the cooperative advantage. GreyStone operates and maintains the panels, members do not have to put holes in their roofs and renters can participate, all while receiving a credit for the energy the panels generate each month.
