GREYSTONE EMPLOYEES GIVE BACK

GreyStone Power is focused on making life better in the communities we serve. One way is by volunteering.

In 2018, GreyStone Gives was established to allow employees eight hours per year to volunteer with an approved 501(c)(3) nonprofit. Recently, a group of employees took advantage of this program to give of their time at Warehouse of Hope in Paulding County.

Warehouse of Hope is a clothing and food bank serving about 500 families per week.

While at the food bank, GreyStone employees had a chance to stock the food shelves, sort clothing, clear clothing rooms and portion out rice. GreyStone staff was able to portion out 500 pounds of rice in two hours. This task normally takes four days.

In the four hours that GreyStone employees volunteered, they did about 10 hours' worth of work, according to Warehouse of Hope staff.

"GreyStone employees are always willing and eager to help in the communities we serve," says Gary Miller, GreyStone's president/CEO. "I am proud of all they do to make life better for our members!" he adds.

"I went to help today, but I am the one who received a blessing," shares Public Relations Administrative Assistant and Event Planner Trisha McBee. "I want to go back and sort the beans and pasta. I may have found my calling to help others!" she adds.
