CAREERS IN ENERGY

GreyStone is committed to strengthening the communities it serves through targeted workforce development, employee career growth and impactful educational partnerships. Two key partnerships include the Energy Pathway program at the Paulding College and Career Academy (PCCA) and Cobb Innovation and Technology Academy (CITA). A proud sponsor of the Energy Pathway program, GreyStone recently donated $10,000 to fund quality instruction, state-of-the-art equipment and real-life experiences for PCCA students to ready them for jobs in the energy industry. This summer, six students from PCCA and CITA completed internships and four PCCA students were selected to advance into first-year apprenticeships at GreyStone.

Each October, GreyStone observes "Careers in Energy Week," highlighting the many opportunities available in the energy field.

"Establishing a workforce development program secures a future pipeline of employees for our organization and supports our guiding principle of community concern," says Rita Wilson, human resources manager.

This year, GreyStone will be participating in mock interviews at CITA during Careers in Energy Week as well as some other activities throughout the week. Additionally, GreyStone employee Caitlin McCarthy was featured in the Center for Energy Workforce Development's "The People of Energy" book.

GreyStone's regional impact is further amplified through its long-standing involvement with the Georgia Energy and Industrial Construction Consortium, the nation's oldest such organization.
