GREYSTONE GIVES MONEY BACK

Many companies are focused on increasing profits or making money for their shareholders. Not-for-profit electric cooperatives like GreyStone Power are different. GreyStone is dedicated to delivering value by helping members save money and returning a portion of past years' margins to our loyal members.

This year, GreyStone is returning $8.5 million to members and former members. Capital credits are allocated to members who received electricity from GreyStone during specific years, based on their energy consumption. Checks are sent out each fall, typically around Oct. 1, and they reflect a portion of the margins from the most recent year and earlier years. Members who had service in 2005 or 2025 will receive a capital credits check this year.

Why does GreyStone do this? The answer is simple: As a not-for-profit, member-owned cooperative, we return funds to those who use GreyStone Power rather than distributing profits to outside shareholders, as a for-profit company would. Following this year's capital credits return, the total amount returned to members since 1936 will be $214.2 million.

At GreyStone, we are committed to providing safe, reliable electricity while maintaining some of the most competitive rates for our members. GreyStone Power members pay 30% less than those customers of the local investor-owned utility based on the 2026 Summer Residential Rate Survey by the Georgia Public Service Commission (PSC) for the residential use of 1,500 kilowatt-hours per month. That's an $87 difference each month for summer months! Learn more at psc.ga.gov.
